

Manfred Bergmann has been Director for "Economies of the Member States I" in the Directorate General for "Economic and Financial Affairs" of the European Commission since July 2016. The objective of this Directorate is to ensure that Member States, including Croatia, implement sound economic and fiscal policies with a view to achieving sustained growth and a high degree of macroeconomic stability.

Between 2011 and 2016 Manfred had been Director for "Indirect Taxation" in the Directorate General for "Taxation and Customs Union". In that function he initiated and supervised policies and their proper implementation by Member States in the field of indirect taxation necessary for the smooth functioning of the Single Market.

Before that, Manfred Bergmann had been Head of Unit for respectively the "Development of Industrial Policy" in DG Enterprise and for the "Economic Evaluation of Community Policies" in DG ECFIN.

Manfred Bergmann holds a PhD in Economics from the University of Muenster in Germany.
