* Up to and including 1989 West Germany, from 1991 Germany. Data for 1990 were subsequently adjusted to smooth the associated break. Up to and including 1955 excluding Saarland. 1 Based on month-end data. 2 1985 statistically adjusted for Bundesbank balances temporarily transferred to credit institutions (pursuant to Section 17 of the Bundesbank Act (Bundesbankgesetz) in the version valid until 15 July 1994). 3 From 1985 the figures contain data for all credit cooperatives (previously partial survey). 4 Based on the mean of two consecutive month-end figures. 5 Daily average in December. Seasonally adjusted. 6 Excluding Deutsche Bundesbank credit.

* Credit institutions pursuant to Section 1(1) of the German Banking Act (Kreditwesengesetz). Until 1994 excluding postal giro and postal savings bank offices, until 1971 excluding building and loan associations, and until 1989 excluding housing enterprises with a saving facility. Until 1991 only branches within the meaning of Section 24(1) number 7 of the Banking Act with lodgements and withdrawals, i.e. excluding deposit-receiving offices, purely foreign exchange bureaus, commission agencies, sub-offices and representative offices; from 1992 without this restriction. Registered offices, registered secondary offices and other offices of credit institutions are recorded as branches provided they engage in banking business. The first branch of a foreign bank in Germany is recorded as a credit institution pursuant to Section 53(1) of the Banking Act, and all others as branches. Up to 1990 West Germany, from 1991 Germany. From 1995 including Deutsche Postbank AG. From 2008, investment companies are no longer classified as credit institutions and are therefore no longer included in these statistics. <sup>1</sup> Including sub-branches (e.g. city branches), if reported. <sup>2</sup> Minimum 50% equity interests in credit institutions (until 31 December 1998, including factoring and leasing companies), excluding their branches.
